In the Field of Sport

BASKETBALL MEN GETTING IN FORM

Having taken the scalp of the Jay hawks in football and cross country running the next attack of the athletic department against the ancient rivals will be in basketball. The interest taken in football has caused the Valley sport fans to forget the indoor pastime but in another month the basketball season will be opening.

The Missouri basketball schedule calls for the first two games with Ames the first week after the Christmas holidays. Assistant Coach Craig Ruby has started his basketballers on their activities for the coming season. Missouri follows her confidence in this Tiger captain of two seasons, who was chosen to act as the director of the gold and black forces on the basketball court. The manner in which he has attacked his job has already won him the respect of those who are acquainted with the basketball situation.

Ruby has not a ray outlook. The Tiger forces without himself and Phil Scott all-conference forwards, will not be so easy to round into championship form. Bond will be back for a forward job. George Williams is a practical certainty at center, while Wacker and Browning will again tackle the defensive end. Then too there is Coffey at guard or forward however he is needed.

As possibilities for the forward positions, in addition to Bond, Ruby has "Piggy" Fox late of Polytechnic in Kansas City and Pidge Browning's younger brother, both of whom are fast, accurate shots and in all details excellent prospects. There are other prospects impossible to attain a line on, because of the closed doors, behind which the Tigers are working.

TO SCHEDULE WEEK'S BASKETBALL TRIP Since the football season is over, Columbia High School boys are beginning to think about basketball. They are trying to schedule a week's trip, consisting of a game with a different team every day if possible during that week. So far only two games have been scheduled, one with Hannibal and one with Chillicothe. These games are both dated for February.

The athletics of the school is financed by the receipts from the games. The Board of Education usually put forth a fund of $500 at the beginning of the year and this is returned as the money comes in from the games. Basketball, according to W. L. Oliver, the superintendent, has been a rule more popular than football with the student body, though attendance at the games this year was unusually good. The lack of room prevents a larger number from attending the basketball games.

The team for the coming season will be composed largely of new material, having been only two boys of last year's team in school.

SENIOR GIRLS WIN HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP Senior girls have won their second championship of the year in University women's athletics. They won the basketball championship and by beating the juniors 1-0 on the hockey field Wednesday afternoon, they are hockey champions also.

With the ball played mostly in the juniors' territory, the seniors made a single goal in the last half. During the first quarter they were inside the scoring circle several times. The juniors were kept from scoring by the remarkable work of Celestine Roach, senior goal tender.

The finishing of the hockey season gives the seniors a 100 per cent showing in games won. The juniors lost to the seniors and sophomores, winning only from the freshmen. The second-year team beat the juniors and freshmen, losing to the 1920 girls. Freshmen lost to all three upperclass teams. They played a better defensive than offensive game.

MILLION DOLLAR STADIUM FOR OHIO Officials in charge of the campaign to raise $1,000,000 for a football stadium at Ohio State University this week were sending out notices to alumni that the stadium is assured, as only $75,000 remains to be subscribed to the fund. It is expected that today will find the entire amount subscribed. Preliminary construction work will be commenced within a few days, it was stated. The new stadium is designed to seat 63,000 persons.

DISPLAY OF POWER MAY SOLACE JAYHAWKERS The Jayhawk may find solace in the fact that he was outfought, outplayed and finally defeated by a team which not only played the best game of the season but also showed for the first time its real power. According to Z. C. Clevenger, athletic director, the Missouri team was in better condition for Thursday's game than ever before in the season.

"The main feature of the game," Mr. Clevenger said, "was the consistent attack of the Missouri team and the fighting spirit of every player. The united work of the team was seen in each play. No team in the Valley could stand up against the Tigers' attack."

Kansas was outplayed and outcharged. Its passing was nearly always broken up by the alert Tiger. During the third and fourth quarter the Kansas team tried to come back with forward passing, hoping to repeat the Nebraska stunt, but it was in vain.

Mr. Clevenger said that it will be impossible to check up the number of the crowd till next Monday, when all the tickets will have been counted. Even thousands, Mr. Clevenger said, would be a conservative estimate.

More "31" men were in Columbia yesterday than ever before in the history of the city. The crowd that witnessed the game was the biggest that ever set foot on Rollins Field.

JOHNNY KILBANE KEEPS TITLE ON THE STAGE By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

New York, Nov. 26.—In those days of non-fighting champions, Johnny Kilbane, historic expert and erstwhile Cleveland politician, wins the peer "Croix de Ring."

He's the undisputed champion of all weights and classes at avoiding ring engagements. Betting through the small time circuits with a vaudeville act in which he dances, sings and plays a violin, the feather-weight champion of the world has no quarrel with others of his kind and the challenges of a pair of first class contenders.

In a decision bout eastern fans sincerely believe that he would lose his title against either Billy De Foe, the St. Paul little fellow, or Andy Chaney.

De Foe with his slashing attack, his clever boxing and his obvious desire to do his best every minute, made a tremendous hit on his first appearance in New York recently when he battered Ralph Brady almost into a pulp. Brady weighed over 140 pounds and was later suspended for failing to make weight by the New York State Commission.

De Foe was unable to get a fight in his class in the Middle West and he had to mingle with lightweight and welterweights. Richard is having the same trouble in getting the featherweights of the East to go against him.

Andy Chaney is another good boy. Bugs around here are confident he would find the champion in a fifteen-round go to a decision. Eddie Mead, Chaney's manager, caused a lot of amusement recently with a novel advertising stunt to force the champion into a fight.

Kilbane refuses to make weight for anyone and this may be the one big reason why he refuses to come to New York. It is becoming an accepted belief that he cannot make the weight of his class under any conditions.

NO BRIGHT LIGHTS FOR JACK DEMPSEY By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

New York, Nov. 27.—Jack Dempsey is an unusual heavyweight champion. Success hasn't turned his head; temptation hasn't felled him. He's the same big affable boy with the same pleasant smile that won him friends by the legion in Toledo. He's the same clean-living athlete in the same perfect condition that enabled him to batter down one of the biggest men in the history of the game.

Other champions in other days succumbed to the "bright lights." Others found training a bore and a task when they reached the summit "of success." With Jack Dempsey's field has been closed, they were the prize that kills.

But not so Dempsey. Critics after looking him over in training have given the opinion that he's in better form now than on that Fourth of July a year ago when he won the championship. He has the clear eye and the ruddy tinge of an athlete in perfect condition.

"How do you put in the day?" he was asked.

"Well, I pile out about 6 o'clock and after some setting up exercises I do a run through Central Park," he said.

"Then a good breakfast and a rest of an hour or so and then a long walk. After lunch I go over to training quarters and put in two or three hours with the ropes, the heavy bag, and some shadow boxing and a few rounds with Bill T. Roy Smith and some other boys who cage around at different times. I get in every time I get a chance. It's great exercise and first-class diversion."

Practically all the prominent fighters around New York occupy places of prominence at the weekly boxing shows in Madison Square Garden, but Dempsey is seldom seen there.

"I like to watch the bouts," he explained. "But late hours and an evening in a smoke-filled room do more harm than good."

Dempsey has a lot of personality. He has that happy faculty of meeting people well and remembering them the second time. He never "high-brows." He's accessible at all times and he'll dig in his pocket for any cause.

Talk with him for an hour and he will scarcely ever speak in the first person. He's no master of English but he's grand.
